Tuesday, 11th October, after completing our water monitoring chores, Bernie, Bill, Ton and I went to the Little Qualicum river. (lower section accessed from Kincade / Waters rds.)

We arrived shortly after 10 a.m.. It was a warm, bright, gorgeous day. Low tide was at 9:20 a.m. so I thought with the rising tide we should expect some fresh fish to come in with it. The river after the week end rain was a little on the high side but fishable.

Sadly very few fish were seen and none were hooked. There were a few old chums in the shallows spawning but no fresh fish appeared. I talked to one fellow who said that he had started at the estuary but didn't see any fish there so he came up river but had no luck.

Cheers, Basher
