

Puntledge River Oct 12

Bob Kissinger [basherbob@outlook.com]

After hearing about a friend of Ton's chum massacre on the Puntledge this past Tuesday Ton, Ant, and myself went to the Puntledge this morning (12 Oct.)

It was a lovely morning with just a few drops of rain. There were a number of other fishermen but we had no problem in finding a 'go to' spot. We did however have a problem in finding any clean fish. In fact we only hooked a few "zombies and most of them were "long line" releases. Didn't see that much action from the other fishermen and the ones that they managed to mostly snag were not that great.

Oh well, still many more days for clean chums.

Cheers
