Had to go to Courtenay today, 1 Oct. On the way I drove along the waterfront at Royston. It was low tide. Didn't see any fish nor any fishers.

On the way home I stopped at the Condensory bridge over the Puntledge river. I saw about a dozen fishermen, mostly gear chuckers but three or four fly guys. Didn't see any fish hooked and in talking to a couple of the fellows coming off the river they hadn't seen any hooked either.

The river level was good and I saw a couple of mouldy chinooks but I think it's about 5 to 7 days early for the chums.

cheers, Basher
