After last week's bad luck we returned three mornings this past week arriving between 4:00 and 5:00am. As luck would have it, the native net fishery was underway on all three days, Tue. Wed and Friday. Tides and weather conditions were not the best either. Bright sun was on the water by 9 or 10 am allowing us to pack up and head home to do our job jar chores etc. Fishing was dead slow; interesting enough however, the same crackers caught the few fish that were retained. All first class flossers. Me, on the other hand, continued to have bad luck. I am now more convinced than ever that it is attributed to my implied comment last week that I would be more comfortable sitting in the Eve River Crapper than Church. At least I did not have fish to process and could go directly to cutting grass and mending the deck etc.
